Pacific gas and electric company

To Members and Friends of "Pacific Service," Greeting:

WE take great pleasure in extending to you the hand of fellowship at this joyous season of Yuletide. For, it is a joyous season. Lives there one among us in this Western land who, as year follows upon year and the all too brief period of Yuletide holiday-making comes round again, does not go out to meet it with a glad heart, does not put aside the cares and responsibilities of his everyday life and, shaking the weight of years from his shoulders as he would rid him of a troublesome burden, become a boy again, to play among boys and girls according to the good old-fashioned rites which custom has established for observation at this season?

It is a good thing for both old and young, this merry-go-round of present-giving and feasting. Surely it makes life a little better worth the living to feel that there is one period in the twelvemonth, brief though it may be, in which the watchword, "On earth peace, good will toward men," is not only upon the lip but in the heart, when the world, as it were, joins in one concerted movement for the promotion of honest fun and jollity.

We whose privilege it is to dwell beneath the untroubled skies of California may well appreciate the blessings that this Yuletide season of 1914 showers upon us. From our haven of peace and security we look through our mental vision upon lands across the seas where the scene is one of awful desolation. Should we not, then, be more than ordinarily grateful to kind Fate that has cast our lot amid surroundings such as ours?

We of "Pacific Service" join with the rest of the Western world in expressing gratitude for the prosperity that is ours. This year of 1914 now drawing to a close has been a peculiarly eventful one with us. Patrons and friends at home and abroad have rallied round the "Pacific Service" standard. The test has been made, and we have come out of it victorious. And so we go our onward way with a light step and heart full of confidence in the bright promise of the future.

To you who follow the fortunes of "Pacific Service," who have stood so nobly by us in this trial of our strength, we can find no words adequate to express our appreciation and good will.

In wishing you the compliments of the season we can but express the hope that you may enjoy to the full the blessings that this age of progress and development bids fair to bring to you.

We beg your acceptance of this Christmas souvenir, and hope that you will give it place among your treasured remembrances of this glad season. Once more we wish you, one and all,

a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!
